Uttarakhand

Ganga aarti, hill stations and the Char Dham — the Himalaya trip most Gujarati families do at least once.

BEST MONTHS	FROM AHMEDABAD	IDEAL DURATION	VEG & JAIN FOOD	GOOD FOR
March–June and September–November for hills; May–June and September–October for Char Dham	Direct flight Ahmedabad → Dehradun, about 2 h; or Ahmedabad → Delhi (1 h 40 m) then 5–6 h by road	4–9 nights depending on itinerary	Very easy — Haridwar and Rishikesh are pure-veg towns by law; Gujarati bhojanalayas and dharamshalas throughout	Pilgrimage groups, families with seniors, honeymooners in the hills, wildlife enthusiasts

Uttarakhand is where the Ganga comes down from the mountains, and it is the one Himalayan state most Gujarati families visit for pilgrimage as much as for the hills. Haridwar and Rishikesh sit on the plains edge, pure-veg pilgrim towns with no meat or alcohol sold within municipal limits; from there the roads climb to Mussoorie and Dehradun in a day, or further north over several days to the Char Dham shrines of Kedarnath and Badrinath.

For Ahmedabad travellers the logistics are straightforward: a direct flight to Dehradun or a flight to Delhi followed by a 5–6 hour drive gets you into the hills in a day. The state is genuinely three trips in one — a short hill-station break, a wildlife trip to Corbett, and a demanding but deeply meaningful Char Dham pilgrimage — and we plan each differently. Distances between towns are short by Himalayan standards, but roads are narrow and landslide-prone in monsoon, so timing the trip right matters more here than in Kerala or Goa.

What to see

Ganga Aarti at Har-ki-Pauri

Haridwar's evening aarti on the banks of the Ganga, around 6:30–7 pm depending on season, with hundreds of diyas set afloat — the single most moving evening of the trip for most families.

Rishikesh ghats and jhulas

Triveni Ghat aarti, the swaying Laxman Jhula and Ram Jhula suspension bridges, and the Beatles Ashram (Chaurasi Kutia) for a quieter walk through old meditation cells.

Mussoorie's Mall Road and viewpoints

Queen of the Hills — Kempty Falls, Gun Hill cable car, Lal Tibba's telescope view of the snow line, and an evening stroll on Mall Road with the family.

Jim Corbett National Park

India's oldest national park; jeep safaris into Dhikala, Bijrani or Jhirna zones for a real chance of spotting tiger, elephant and over 600 bird species.

Auli's Himalayan panorama and ropeway

Asia's longer cable cars run from Joshimath to Auli (4 km, about 25 minutes), opening onto views of Nanda Devi; skiing in winter, meadows and views the rest of the year.

Char Dham — Kedarnath and Badrinath

The two most revered Himalayan shrines of Uttarakhand, reached by trek, pony, palki or helicopter to Kedarnath (3,583 m) and by road to Badrinath (3,133 m).

Nainital's Naini Lake

A boat ride on the eye-shaped lake, the Mall Road, Naina Devi Temple on the shore, and a cable car up to Snow View Point.

Rajaji National Park

A lesser-known tiger and elephant reserve close to Haridwar and Rishikesh — a good half-day safari add-on that doesn't need a detour.

Getting there from Ahmedabad

Fly: direct Ahmedabad–Dehradun flights run a few days a week (check current days before booking), about 2 hours — Jolly Grant Airport is 35 km from Haridwar and 55 km from Mussoorie. When there's no direct flight on your dates, fly Ahmedabad–Delhi (1 h 40 m, multiple daily) and drive 5–6 hours to Haridwar or Rishikesh (about 220 km via the Delhi–Dehradun expressway once it's fully open, otherwise via Meerut and Roorkee).

Train: the Yoga Express (19031/19032) runs Ahmedabad to Haridwar in about 30 hours — a long journey, but some pilgrimage groups prefer it, particularly larger family groups travelling together with luggage. Other options connect via Delhi with a change.

Within Uttarakhand: a private car with a hill-experienced driver is essential. Roads are narrow, winding and can close temporarily after heavy rain or landslides in monsoon; average hill speeds are 25–30 km/h even on good roads.

Getting around. A private car with driver, kept for the length of the trip, is how almost every family travels here — Innova or similar for groups of 5–6, a Tempo Traveller for larger groups. Cable cars handle the short climbs at Mansa Devi, Chandi Devi, Gun Hill and Snow View Point. For the Kedarnath leg specifically, transport switches to shared jeep/taxi up to Sonprayag or Gaurikund, then trek, pony or helicopter — private cars cannot go beyond Sonprayag.

When to go

SEASON	MONTHS	WHAT TO EXPECT
Spring	March – May	Pleasant, 15–28°C on the plains, 8–20°C in the hills. Good for hill stations; late May onward gets hot in Haridwar/Rishikesh (up to 38°C) but hills stay comfortable. Char Dham yatra opens late April/early May.

Monsoon	June – September	Heavy rain, landslide risk on hill and Char Dham roads, several routes close temporarily. We avoid recommending the Char Dham itinerary in peak monsoon (July–August); hill-station trips are possible but with flexible dates.
Autumn	October – November	The best window overall – clear skies, 10–25°C, Himalayan peaks visible from Mussoorie, Nainital and Auli. Char Dham yatra closes mid-to-late November (Kedarnath usually first, around Diwali).
Winter	December – February	Cold, 2–15°C in the hills, occasional snow in Mussoorie, Nainital and Auli (good for skiing at Auli, January–February). Char Dham shrines are closed and deities moved to winter seats. Haridwar/Rishikesh stay mild, 8–20°C.

Permits, rules and packing

Char Dham yatra registration is mandatory for every pilgrim visiting Kedarnath, Badrinath, Gangotri or Yamunotri — done online on the official Uttarakhand tourism portal or biometric registration counters at Haridwar/Rishikesh; carry a photo ID and the registration slip at every checkpoint. Corbett National Park safaris require permits booked in advance online (zones fill up during weekends and holidays in season); we book these once dates are fixed. No special permit is needed for Mussoorie, Nainital, Dehradun or Auli.

What to pack

- Warm layers for evenings even in summer — hill towns drop to 10–15°C after sunset
- Sturdy walking shoes with grip for temple steps, ghats and the Kedarnath trek
- Rain jacket or poncho, essential June–September and useful any month in the hills
- Woollens, gloves and a cap for Char Dham (Kedarnath can be near freezing even in May) and for Auli in winter
- A walking stick for seniors on the Kedarnath trek if walking rather than using pony/helicopter
- Basic medicines including something for altitude discomfort and motion sickness on winding roads
- Photocopies of ID for every traveller — needed at Char Dham registration and most hotel check-ins

Veg and Jain food

- Haridwar and Rishikesh are pure-veg towns by municipal law — no meat, egg or alcohol is sold within their limits, which suits Gujarati and Jain travellers perfectly.
- Gujarati dharamshalas and bhojanalayas are common in Haridwar (many run by Gujarati trusts near Har-ki-Pauri) and in Rishikesh; ask us to book one if you specifically want a Gujarati kitchen.
- Jain meal requests (no onion, garlic or root vegetables) are easy to arrange in Haridwar/Rishikesh hotels with a day's notice; in remote Char Dham stretches, options narrow to simple dal-rice-sabzi, so carry some dry snacks.
- Mussoorie and Nainital have more North Indian and Chinese-style vegetarian food (momos, noodles) alongside standard thalis; Corbett-area resorts cook mostly North Indian veg and are used to Gujarati groups.

What it costs

Indicative per-person costs on twin sharing including private car, hotels, breakfast and dinner, excluding Ahmedabad–Uttarakhand flights or train fare. Actual quotes depend on dates, hotel category and whether Kedarnath is done by trek or helicopter.

VALUE

₹18,000 – 28,000

3★ hotels and pilgrim guesthouses, trek/pony for Kedarnath, shared cable cars, standard-season dates

COMFORT

₹28,000 – 50,000

4★ hotels, helicopter option for Kedarnath, flexible car and driver, better-located Mussoorie/Nainital properties

PREMIUM

₹55,000 – 85,000

5★ and boutique hill resorts (JW Marriott/Fortune Mussoorie, The Naini Retreat), helicopter both ways for Kedarnath, private car upgraded to a larger SUV

Where the money goes

- Kedarnath helicopter: roughly ₹8,000–12,000 per person one way from Phata/Guptkashi/Sersi in season, indicative and subject to change every year — booked months ahead for peak May–June and September–October dates.
- Corbett safari jeep: ₹4,500–7,000 per jeep (up to 6 people) for a Bijrani or Jhirna zone safari including permit and guide; Dhikala zone (overnight, more likely tiger sightings) costs more and needs advance booking.
- Nainital boating: ₹250–400 per person for a 30-minute shikara or paddle boat on Naini Lake.
- Ropeways and cable cars: Gun Hill and Snow View Point ₹150–250 per person round trip; Auli's Joshimath–Auli ropeway ₹750–1,000 per person round trip; Mansa Devi/Chandi Devi ₹100–150 each.

Travelling with parents and children

- Book Kedarnath helicopter seats the moment your dates are fixed — they sell out weeks in advance in peak season and last-minute availability is rare and expensive.
- For anyone over 60 or with knee, heart or breathing concerns, we recommend the helicopter for Kedarnath over the 16 km trek; pony and palki are physically demanding for the rider too at that altitude.
- Char Dham roads have long queues of vehicles in peak season (May, June, September, October) — build in extra hours and don't schedule a same-day flight after returning from the yatra.
- Ganga Aarti at Har-ki-Pauri gets very crowded on weekends and during Kanwar Yatra (roughly July–August, avoid this period if possible); a paid seating platform is available and worth it for seniors and small children.
- Mussoorie's Mall Road is closed to private vehicles in the evening — hotels close to the Mall are more convenient than those requiring a walk uphill with luggage.
- Carry cash for smaller towns and the Char Dham route — ATMs are unreliable beyond Rudraprayag/Guptkashi and card acceptance is patchy.

Questions families ask us

When is the Char Dham yatra open, and when should we go?

The Kedarnath and Badrinath temples open around late April to early May each year (exact dates are announced by the temple committees a few months ahead) and close around late October to mid-November, with Kedarnath usually closing first, around Diwali. May–June and September–October are the best windows — July–August sees heavy monsoon rain and higher landslide risk on hill roads.

How hard is the Kedarnath trek, and what if we can't walk 16 km?

The trek from Gaurikund to Kedarnath is 16 km one way, climbing to 3,583 m, and takes a fit adult 6–8 hours; it is genuinely tough, especially the last few kilometres. Alternatives are pony or palki (carried by porters), both bookable locally, or a helicopter from Phata, Guptkashi or Sersi, which takes the trip down to a 20–25 minute flight each way. We recommend helicopter for seniors or anyone unsure of their fitness.

Is Rishikesh rafting safe for children and seniors, and when does it run?

Rafting season runs roughly September to June (the Ganga is too high and fast during peak monsoon, July–August, when it's usually suspended). Mild stretches like Brahmpuri to Rishikesh are gentle and suitable for most children over 12 and reasonably fit adults; the longer Shimpurī-to-Rishikesh stretch has bigger rapids and is better for teens and adults who want the adventure. Life jackets and helmets are mandatory and instructors are experienced, but we don't recommend rafting for very young children or anyone with heart or back conditions.

Nainital or Mussoorie — if we can only do one, which should we pick?

Mussoorie is closer to Haridwar/Rishikesh (3–3.5 hours) and pairs naturally with a Ganga-aarti trip; it has more variety of viewpoints and a livelier Mall Road. Nainital has the lake, which children particularly enjoy, and is the better choice if you're also doing Corbett, since Ramnagar sits roughly midway between Delhi and Nainital. For a single hill-station add-on to a Haridwar–Rishikesh trip, we usually suggest Mussoorie for the shorter drive.

Can we combine Jim Corbett with the Char Dham pilgrimage?

Not comfortably in one trip — Corbett is south-east of Rishikesh towards Ramnagar, while Char Dham heads north into the high mountains; combining both means considerable extra driving. We usually suggest Corbett as part of the classic hill-station circuit (with Nainital) or as a separate short trip, and keep the Char Dham pilgrimage itinerary focused on Haridwar–Rishikesh–Kedarnath–Badrinath.

Is Uttarakhand suitable for a family with very young children or elderly parents travelling together?

Haridwar, Rishikesh, Mussoorie and Nainital are all comfortable for three generations travelling together — good roads, plenty of rest stops, and no strenuous walking beyond a few hundred steps at viewpoints. The Char Dham pilgrimage is more demanding: Badrinath needs no walking at all since the temple is roadside, but Kedarnath's trek is genuinely tough, so we plan pony, palki or helicopter for seniors and young children on that leg specifically.

Classic Uttarakhand

The trip most families ask for: a night of Ganga aarti, a night in Rishikesh, two easy days in Mussoorie, and two in Nainital via Corbett-direction roads. No single drive longer than 6 hours.

6 nights / 7 days Route: Haridwar – Rishikesh – Mussoorie – Nainital

From ₹26,000 per person, indicative

Day

1

HARIDWAR

Arrive and Ganga Aarti

Fly into Dehradun (Jolly Grant Airport) and drive to Haridwar, 35 km, about 1 hour, or arrive by the overnight train from Ahmedabad. Check in by early afternoon and rest. In the evening, walk to Har-ki-Pauri for the Ganga Aarti, which starts around 6:30 pm in winter and 7 pm in summer — arrive 30–40 minutes early to get a good spot near the ghat.

Stay: Haridwar · Meals: Dinner

2

HARIDWAR → RISHIKESH

Temples and the ghats

Morning visit to Mansa Devi and Chandi Devi temples by cable car (both about 10 minutes each way), then drive to Rishikesh, 25 km, 45 minutes. Afternoon at Laxman Jhula and Ram Jhula, and a walk through the Beatles Ashram if the group is interested. Evening aarti at Triveni Ghat, smaller and quieter than Haridwar's, around 6–6:30 pm.

Stay: Rishikesh · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

Day

3

RISHIKESH → MUSSOORIE

Into the hills

Drive to Mussoorie via Dehradun, about 90 km, 3–3½ hours with the climb from Dehradun taking the last hour. Check in and spend the afternoon on Mall Road and at Gun Hill (cable car up, about 8 minutes). Evening free for shopping and the famous Mussoorie momos and Chinese food street stalls (vegetarian versions widely available).

Stay: Mussoorie · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

4

Kempty Falls and Dhanaulti

Morning at Kempty Falls, 15 km/30 minutes from town — go early (by 9 am) to avoid crowds, and note the 200-odd steps down to the falls, tough for seniors, though a cable car covers part of the descent. Afternoon drive to Lal Tibba for the best snow-line view through the coin-operated telescope, then on to Dhanaulti, 24 km, for its quiet deodar forests if time permits.

Stay: Mussoorie · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

5

MUSSOORIE → NAINITAL

Across to the lake district

Long but scenic drive to Nainital, about 280 km, 8–9 hours via Dehradun and Haldwani — start by 6:30 am, or split the drive with an overnight halt in Ramnagar (near Corbett) if the group prefers shorter days. Check in by evening and take a first walk along the Mall Road and the lake.

Stay: Nainital · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

6

NAINITAL

The lake and the viewpoints

Morning boat ride on Naini Lake (paddle or shikara-style boats, about ₹250–400 for 30 minutes) and darshan at Naina Devi Temple on the northern shore. Cable car to Snow View Point for Himalayan views on a clear day, then browse Mall Road and Tibetan Market in the evening.

Stay: Nainital · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

7

NAINITAL → DEHRADUN/DELHI → AHMEDABAD

Fly home

Drive to Pantnagar (65 km, 2 hours) for a regional flight, or the longer 300 km/8-hour drive back to Dehradun airport — most groups instead route via Delhi (Nainital to Delhi is about 300 km, 7–8 hours) and take an evening flight to Ahmedabad. We plan this leg around your actual flight once dates are fixed.

Stay: — · Meals: Breakfast

Included

- + Private AC vehicle for the whole circuit (Innova or similar)
- + 6 nights in inspected 3★/4★ hotels
- + Daily breakfast and veg dinner
- + Mansa Devi and Chandi Devi cable car tickets
- + Gun Hill and Snow View Point cable car tickets
- + Airport/station pickup and drop

Not included

- Ahmedabad–Dehradun/Delhi flights or train fare
- Lunches on sightseeing days
- Naini Lake boating and Kempty Falls cable car
- Travel insurance
- GST 5%

STANDARD

₹26,000–32,000

Per person, twin sharing

PREMIUM

₹40,000–52,000

Per person, twin sharing

Per person on twin sharing, indicative, excluding flights. May–June and October long weekends run 20–25% higher; add ₹8,000–14,000 per person for return Ahmedabad–Dehradun flights if booked.

Char Dham Pilgrimage

The full Kedarnath–Badrinath yatra for families and pilgrimage groups. Online registration is mandatory for both shrines; we handle this along with helicopter or pony bookings once your dates are confirmed. Runs only May to October — the shrines are closed the rest of the year.

8 nights / 9 days

Route: Haridwar – Rishikesh – Guptkashi – Kedarnath – Badrinath – Rudraprayag/Rishikesh

From ₹42,000 per person, indicative

Day

1

HARIDWAR

Arrive and Ganga Aarti

Arrive by flight into Dehradun or overnight train, drive to Haridwar (35 km, 1 hour). Rest, then attend the evening Ganga Aarti at Har-ki-Pauri. This is also when we hand over your Char Dham registration confirmation and ID cards, which every pilgrim must carry throughout the yatra.

Stay: Haridwar · Meals: Dinner

2

HARIDWAR → RISHIKESH

Rishikesh and preparation

Morning temple visits in Haridwar, then a short drive to Rishikesh (25 km). Afternoon at Ram Jhula and Laxman Jhula, evening aarti at Triveni Ghat. Use today to buy any warm clothing or trekking essentials you're missing — Rishikesh has better shops for this than the towns ahead.

Stay: Rishikesh · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

3

RISHIKESH → GUPTKASHI

Towards Kedarnath

Long mountain drive to Guptkashi (or Sonprayag/Sitapur, closer to the trek base), about 200 km, 8–9 hours through Rudraprayag and Ukhimath. Roads are narrow with hairpin bends; we schedule an early 6 am start and a lunch halt at Rudraprayag. Overnight to be fresh for the Kedarnath leg.

Stay: Guptkashi/Sitapur · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

4

GUPTKASHI → KEDARNATH

Kedarnath darshan

Drive to Sonprayag then a shared taxi to Gaurikund (5 km), the actual trek start. From Gaurikund it is 16 km to Kedarnath (3,583 m) — on foot (6–8 hours for a fit adult), by pony/palki (₹4,000–8,000 one way, arranged locally), or by helicopter from Phata or Guptkashi (20–25 minutes each way, seats limited and booked months ahead in season). Darshan at the temple, overnight near the shrine in basic pilgrim accommodation or a GMVN guesthouse.

Stay: Kedarnath · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

Day
5

KEDARNATH → GUPTKASHI

Return from Kedarnath

Early darshan if not done the previous evening, then descend the same way you came up — trek, pony or helicopter. Groups walking down should start by 7 am to reach Gaurikund before dark. Drive back to Guptkashi/Sitapur for a comfortable night's rest.

Stay: Guptkashi/Sitapur · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

6

GUPTKASHI → BADRINATH

On to Badrinath

Drive to Badrinath, about 200 km, 8–9 hours via Joshimath, passing Vishnuprayag and the Alaknanda valley. Unlike Kedarnath, Badrinath temple sits right by the road, so no trek is needed — a significant relief after the previous two days. Evening darshan and aarti at the temple.

Stay: Badrinath · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

7

BADRINATH → RUDRAPRAYAG/RISHIKESH

Descend towards the plains

Early morning darshan at Badrinath (queues build quickly after 8 am), a stop at Mana village — the last Indian village before the Tibet border — and then a long drive down to Rudraprayag or straight through to Rishikesh (about 290 km, 9–10 hours from Badrinath to Rishikesh; most groups break the drive at Rudraprayag or Srinagar-Garhwal).

Stay: Rudraprayag or Rishikesh · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

Day
8

RISHIKESH

Rest day and Rishikesh sightseeing

A deliberately light day after the yatra. Ram Jhula, Parmarth Niketan ghat, and an optional short rafting stretch for those who want it (Brahmpuri to Rishikesh, mild grade, suitable for most ages). Evening aarti at Triveni Ghat or Parmarth Niketan.

Stay: Rishikesh · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

Fly or train home

Drive to Dehradun airport (about 45 km from Rishikesh, 1–1.5 hours) or to Haridwar railway station. We schedule this around your confirmed flight or train once booked.

Stay: — · Meals: Breakfast

Included

- + Private vehicle for the entire yatra, including mountain-rated driver
- + 8 nights: hotels in Haridwar/Rishikesh, pilgrim guesthouses near Kedarnath and Badrinath
- + Char Dham registration and ID card processing
- + Daily breakfast and veg dinner
- + Assistance booking pony/palki or helicopter for Kedarnath (paid separately)
- + Airport/station pickup and drop

Not included

- Ahmedabad–Dehradun/Delhi flights or train fare
- Kedarnath pony, palki or helicopter fare
- Lunches
- Travel and yatra insurance (strongly recommended for high-altitude sections)
- GST 5%

STANDARD₹42,000–52,000

Per person, twin sharing

PREMIUM₹65,000–85,000

Per person, twin sharing

Per person on twin sharing, indicative, excluding flights, and excluding Kedarnath pony/helicopter fare which is paid locally. Helicopter seats push the trip up by ₹8,000–15,000 per person one way but save two demanding trek days — we recommend it for anyone over 55 or with knee or breathing concerns.

Haridwar, Rishikesh & Mussoorie Short Break

A long-weekend version for a first taste of Uttarakhand: aarti, ghats and one solid hill-station stop, with no drive over 3 hours.

4 nights / 5 days

Route: Haridwar – Rishikesh – Mussoorie

From ₹18,000 per person, indicative

Day

1

HARIDWAR

Arrive and Ganga Aarti

Fly Ahmedabad–Dehradun and drive to Haridwar (35 km, 1 hour), or take an overnight train arriving by morning. Check in, rest, and head to Har-ki-Pauri for the evening Ganga Aarti — the highlight of the day for most first-time visitors.

Stay: Haridwar · Meals: Dinner

2

HARIDWAR → RISHIKESH

Ghats and jhulas

Morning cable car to Mansa Devi temple, then drive to Rishikesh (25 km, 45 minutes). Afternoon at Laxman Jhula, Ram Jhula and the Beatles Ashram; evening aarti at Triveni Ghat or Parmarth Niketan.

Stay: Rishikesh · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

3

RISHIKESH → MUSSOORIE

Up to the hills

Drive to Mussoorie via Dehradun, about 90 km, 3–3½ hours. Afternoon on Mall Road and at Gun Hill by cable car. Evening free for shopping and a walk along the ridge.

Stay: Mussoorie · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

4

MUSSOORIE

Kempty Falls and viewpoints

Morning at Kempty Falls (go by 9 am to beat the crowd), then Lal Tibba for the telescope view of the snow line. Optional short drive to Dhanaulti for those who want quieter forest scenery. Last evening on Mall Road.

Stay: Mussoorie · Meals: Breakfast, Dinner

5

MUSSOORIE → DEHRADUN → AHMEDABAD

Fly home

Drive down to Dehradun (35 km, 1–1.5 hours) for your flight to Ahmedabad. Jolly Grant Airport is about 55 km from Mussoorie, so allow 2 hours from town.

Stay: — · Meals: Breakfast

Included

+ Private AC vehicle for the whole trip
